Protecting source water for the Six Nations Grand River intake

A Proposed Drinking Water Source Protection Plan has been prepared for the Grand River watershed. The Plan will help protect the quality of water in the Grand River at the intake for the Six Nations water system serving Ohsweken.

The Plan has been developed under the Ontario Clean Water Act to protect the sources of municipal and First Nations water systems throughout the Grand River watershed.

The development of the plan has been overseen by the Lake Erie Region Source Protection Committee, which includes three First Nation representatives.

The Six Nations intake was included in the Plan at the request of the Six Nations Elected Council.

The policies and programs to protect water quality will be implemented in areas upstream of Six Nations in the County of Brant, Brantford and other municipalities.

The Plan was submitted to the Ontario Ministry of the Environment in January 2013 for its approval. Since then, some amendments have been made to the plan. The updated plan will be reviewed by the Source Protection Committee in May and resubmitted to the province in June for its approval.
